EQUIPMENT FOR MANU- FACTURE OF MONEY SEIZED

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Secret service operatives today indicated that they are continuing the roundup of a great counterfeiting gang which began with sensational arrests in this district last night. It is intimated that within the next few hours approximately fifty men and women will be taken into custody. Hints were given out that the Treasury Department was working on one of the most extensive plots in its history. Twenty men and two women are under guard in a custom house, it was said here today, and that a $100,000 in spurious ten and twenty dollars bills and equipment for their manufacture had been seized.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Sixty-four persons are held in what secret service operatives call the "most elaborate counterfeiting plot ever uncovered in this country." Twenty-eight persons were rounded up last night and thirty six apprehended in the last two weeks. Nine large wholesale distributors of counterfeit money with central plant located in Greenwich village of this city, have been located. Other plants are located in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Long Island and New Jersey.

TWO DAYS SCHOOL HOLIDAYS FOR WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

City schools will be dismissed this afternoon until Monday on account of tomorrow being Washington's birthday a national holiday. This will be the only holiday to be observed by the schools this term. "From years of experience I have found that it is not advisable to give a holiday on Thursday and resume school work on Friday," said Supt. J. W. Bradner. "If the schools did not dismiss for Lincoln's Birthday which was a legal holiday and I think the children are due two days off this week."

It is understood that programs for the celebration of the holiday are being prepared by some of the pupils.

GEORGE COLSON TRIAL POST- PONED UNTIL MAY 14

Trial of George Colson which was scheduled to take place at Richmond yesterday was deferred on account of the absence of six commonwealth witnesses. The case has been reset for May 14. Witnesses who failed to appear were fined, according to reports from there.

It is said that Frank Ball was the only commonwealth witness present. All of the witnesses for the defense were present. Judge J. R. Shackelford seemed greatly disappointed because of the circumstance which has made it necessary to have the trial postponed for the third time. He issued orders for the absent witnesses to be fined thirty dollars each and that they be placed under a heavy bond to insure their appearance May 14.

George Colson is charged with the killing of Ira Ball here last February. A change of venue being granted in the case, it was transferred to Richmond for trial.

THE GEESSE FLY NORTH AND SPRING WILL BE HERE SOON PREDICTION

Just as the subject of the ground hog's perfidy this year is being dropped, comes another forecast hailed by weather prognosticators every where and every time as unfailing. This is a sign from the skies, from which there is no variance.

Early this morning we are told, as the day was dawning, a great flock of wild geese, perhaps two hundred in number, flew over Middlesboro, headed straight north. Their flight was as silent as it was swift, but there was no doubt from their determined manner that they consider the winter over, and bored with the uneventfulness of the south, they were going north as fast as they could to seek adventure.

MRS. NOFFSINGER TELLS OF PLOT TO KILL HUSBAND

Gibbons, Boarder at Her Home, Had Made Love to Her—Wanted to Slay Noffsinger After Latter
Abused Her

CONFESSION OF GIBBONS INTRODUCED IN TRIAL

By Associated Press.
HENDERSON, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Lurabelle Noffsinger, witness for the State, today told details of the alleged plot to kill her husband, Gus Noffsinger, who was slain with a hammer there last December. She asserted Ollie Gibbons, former boarder of the Noffsinger home, planned the crime. She said he began to make love to her last September and when she told him about her husband's abuse Gibbons told her that he would kill Noffsinger that night. She did not agree or object, she said, and next morning Noffsinger was found at the door of his garage with his head crushed from a hammer blow. The previous alleged plot to kill Noffsinger, planned by Gibbons, she said, failed because he objected to them. One time, she asserted, she was to send her husband to the coal house for a fresh fuel supply and that Gibbons said he would waylay Noffsinger. Another time, she said, Gibbons proposed that she place poison in Noffsinger's food. Neither time would she agree, she said. Mrs. Noffsinger was indicted on a charge of conspiracy to kill her husband.

Confession of Gibbons that he slew Noffsinger with a hammer and that he hailed the victim on the street the night of the murder and went with him to the garage where he killed him was admitted in evidence. The confession was made while in jail for safe-keeping at Louisville. Gibbons was expected to take the stand when the court adjourned today.

A THOUGHT

For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it.—Lu. 9:24.

You cannot win without sacrifice.—Charles Buxton.

CHEATING SELF

Word comes over the cable from Germany that Prof. Rontgen, discoverer of the X-ray and who died and was cremated recently, spent his last years in poverty. He refused to patent his discovery, believing it so valuable that he should give it to the world without making a profit from it himself. His chief income when he died was a pension of $50 a year. He lived at the home of a friend.

We have a tremendous respect for Prof. Rontgen's high idealism. We do not believe that his wonderful brain was capable of having the "deviation from normal" that makes egomaniacs desire to pose as martyrs. Nevertheless, he was a martyr, a victim of his ideals.

He was honest with the world. But was he really honest with himself?

From cradle to grave we have the theory of honesty drummed into us. Did you ever observe that mostly this drumming has to do with honesty in our relations to others—and that little is said about honesty to ourselves?

It is dishonest to do less or to give less than we are paid for, making due allowances for the profit system which is indispensable under our present system of economies.

It is dishonest to steal.

It is dishonest to pay a man less than he is worth—again making allowances for the necessary margin of profit to the employer.

And it also is dishonest, to ourselves, to do or give materially more than we are paid for. Stripped of bunk, there is nothing admirable in Old faithful who slaves his life away at $65 a month on a job that should pay him $100. That's an unfair arrangement, and anything unfair is a form of dishonesty. This probably will be called radical, by people who utilize "force of circumstances" to exact exorbitant profit from the unfortunate who cannot help themselves.

You today are not the same person you were years ago. And the you of the future will be different from the you of today. The future you will be a worn-out machine, with earning power reduced. And you owe, to the future you, a just return on today's services so that you will not cheat the future you.

That individual of the future, YOU, is depending on you of today not to cheat him.

Rontgen, discoverer of the mysterious and invaluable X-ray, cheated his future self.

It's a good idea to apply, this idea, this brake: It is as dishonest to attempt to get more than we are entitled to, as it is to take less.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

Eye-and-eye the Twins came to a what has happened?"

city in Mix-Up Land and what a queer city it was.

The houses were in the middle of the street while the sidewalks and car-tracks were where the houses should have been.

No two houses were alike. Some being round, some square, some shaped like aprons and some like dome caps. Some were made of glass with wooden windows, and others had chimneys in the cellar.

"Jack Straw certainly mixed this place up when he turned his magic ring," said Nick. "If Even-Steven ever gets to be king again and the country put to rights, nobody will know where to find anything."

"You are right young man, quite right," said a voice, and the Twins beheld a man standing in a doorway. Over his head was a sign which said, "Five and Ten Dollar Store. Nothing Under."

"Did he mix you up, too?" asked Nancy.

"Mix me! Mix is mild. He completely confounded me the day he turned the land topsy-turvy. Would you like to come inside and just see

"Oh yes, thank you," said Nick, quickly accepting the man's invitation, for like all little boys he was curious.

"So in they went.

"Ob, My!" cried Nancy the minute she got inside. "Just look at those dolls! They are all turned around! They've got arms instead of legs and legs instead of arms and their faces are looking backwards!"

"And look at the drums!" said Nick. "They've got sticks for tops."

But more sights met their eyes all the work of Jack Straw and his dreadful ring.

The heads of the teddy bears were in the monkeys and the tails of the monkeys were on the teddy bears. The keys on the toy pianos were turned to door knobs and the rockers off the doll cradles had jumped onto the teacups which spilled everything right on the table.

"Even the Mix-Uppers won't buy anything from me," said the Five and Ten Dollar Store Man sadly. "I wish Even-Steven would get to be king again and put things to rights."

SUNDAY CONCLUDES KNOXVILLE CAMPAIGN, 7000 CONVERSIONS

With a total of nearly 7000 conversions to his credit, Billy Sunday has concluded his six weeks' revival campaign in Knoxville and is now in Winona Lake, Ind., for a brief rest. His next big campaign will be at Louisville.

During practically every day of the recent campaign, Mr. Sunday spoke to an audience of 10,000 people twice each day. His sermons were rapid and to the point. Sin in all its hideous forms was attacked and exposed by the evangelist.

He received a great deal of praise and no small amount of criticism from Knoxvillians and others who attended the services. His methods of preaching were so unusual that many church-going persons were offended. But the force of his words was so great that these same persons could not be otherwise than pleased. The appreciation of the people was shown in a very practical manner when they voluntarily gave $20,054.24 to defray expense of the meetings.

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

"What is it?" Kate was leaning over the wheel, looking into the dim, shadowed place. "We'll see," Latham was getting out of the car. Kate was beside him as he took hold of the door. "Don't!" Her hand on his arm stayed his movement. "I'm almost afraid to go in! I feel as if some terrible thing has happened."

Latham hesitated. He glanced at Kate's face, white with fright. "It isn't anything," he said brusquely, "just some foolish Chinese action."

The bell tinkled crazily as the door swung back into an atmosphere heavy with incense. Kate instinctively drew away. She felt suddenly as if she were rudely invading some sacred place.

"How can you? Don't you feel it—don't you feel that the air is tense with excitement—something has happened?" Kate's words came quickly. Latham rushed heedlessly into the incense-heavy place. In the center of the shadowy room he loomed a gigantic among the moving pigmy figures. One hand shot out. He caught at a Chinese shuffling rapidly past.

"Say—what's going on here? Where's Sing Loy?" he queried. "The agile little figure slipped out of his grasp and with an untellable, whining sound, melted into the darkness beyond the outer door."

"What'd you think of that?" Latham had entered and was near enough to Latham when he spoke to discover that he was flushed. His voice sounded a trifle ill-tempered. "Do you know the place well enough to lead the way back?" he asked.

"I know the way, but I'm not sure I have the right." Kate looked at the bundles of laundry, left unprotected on the shelves back of the counter. Something must be radically wrong, else no Chinese business man would take so great a risk with his wealth.

"Listen a minute!" Kate's voice was hushed. A peculiar wall was coming from the back room. "What is it?" Latham impressed by the weirdness of the sound, was whispering also. "That is Sing Loy's voice," Kate breathed. Then, "Do you suppose—" "The sound died on her lips. A terrible fear possessed her. She seemed suddenly rooted to the spot."

THE CHARM
♦ ♦ ♦ By Berton Braley ♦ ♦ ♦

There's lots of things I love her for—her slenderness and race, The joy that dances in her eyes, the beauty of her face, The lips that are so soft to kiss, the voice I like to hear; She has a myriad witcheries that make her sweet and dear, But more, I think, than any other charm of hers I prize, The little laughing wrinkles in the corners of her eyes!

They won me from the very first, they'll hold me to the last, A happy, wholesome magic with a lure that binds me fast. And by the gods of cheerfulness and gay, warm-hearted mirth, I'll strive to bring her happiness for all that I am worth: I'll try to keep, with all the skill a lover can devise, Those little laughing wrinkles at the corners of her eyes!

Together we laugh through life, and bravely as can be We'll chuckle in the face of fate and grin at destiny. Endeavoring to make the world perhaps a little bit More frolicsome and sunnier because We've lived in it; And all of our posterity will have, so I surmise, Those little laughing wrinkles in the corners of their eyes!

About thirty couples attended the dance given at the Continental Hotel Monday night. Many were here from Middlesboro and Harlan. Music was furnished by the All Star Orchestra of Roanoke, Va.

Luncheon Honors

Mrs. R. M. Watt and Mrs. A. G. Patterson were hostesses at a one o'clock luncheon Tuesday given at the home of Mrs. Patterson to honor Mrs. Ethel Gardner. Mrs. Gardner, who has been in Pineville for the last seven months as manager of Mrs. R. L. Parks store, will leave soon to make her home in Cincinnati.

There were eighteen guests present and the favors were suggestive of February 22, George Washington's birthday. Following the luncheon a contest creating a farewell good wish for Mrs. Gardner from the letters in George Washington's name, was enjoyed.

A picture of the returned Rhine soldiers and their children indicates they were in the infantry.

TODAY'S RECIPES

STEAKS

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

Probably most housekeepers, asked to name the meat most enjoyed by their families, would answer "steak."

This is due partly to the ease with which steak is prepared, partly to the fact that most people, especially men, do not care for "made" dishes. Menu cards list various kinds of steaks, such as sirloin and tenderloin, presumably thick, to be broiled over coals, gas or charcoal, or parboiled. Then, one sees "minute steak," very thin, so as to broil "medium" in a minute.

Sauce is not necessary, but many people enjoy one, made with fresh or canned mushrooms.

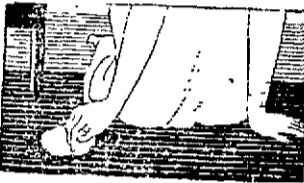

Onions no longer are considered picky, and what is better than a steak so smothered, or covered with them fried?

If a steak is thick—that is, two or more inches—it should be carved in thin slices, several being served to each person, a much better method than giving each a large piece to be cut on the plate.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Polishing The Floor

Those very dark marks made on a hardwood floor by rockers or furniture casters will disappear if you rub them with very fine steel wool dipped in water.

Cleaners will disappear if you rub them with very fine steel wool dipped in water.

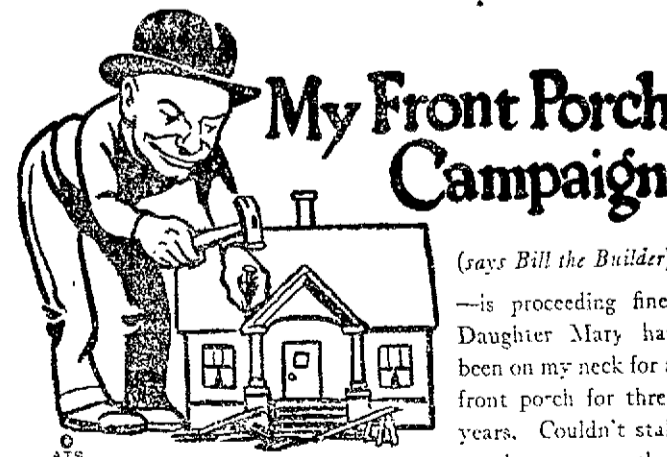

Cleaning Cake Pans

To clean the corners of your square cake pans you will find a small brush such as you use for vegetables, useful.

EGGS

By Bertha F. Shippleigh

On the part of the egg, it is not a very pleasant thing to be on top of the egg, and it is not a very pleasant thing to be on the bottom of the egg.

To make Hollandaise, put in a sauce pan the third of a cup of butter, the yolks of two eggs, and a table spoon of vinegar. Beat the mixture, adding the vinegar, and the hot water, but not allowing it to touch the sides of the pan until the mixture has thickened. Then add the remainder of the butter and is the mixture in lens, add the remainder, stirring constantly, until the mixture is thick.

The sauce should be made with glass and thick enough to hold itself when it is turned.

At Standard Oil Or Privately-Owned Filling Stations.

No matter where you buy Polarine, you will find its quality always the same. If you are in the habit of buying your motor supplies at one of the filling stations operated by this Company, or if you are patronizing one of the hundreds of dealers selling this Company's products, you may be absolutely certain that the quality of the Polarine you get will be the same; and that you will get better results from your motor at lower cost by sticking to the standard and putting nothing in your crank case but

Polarine MOTOR OIL

There is a grade of this product made to suit your car, and the chart of recommendations (on display by all dealers) will tell you just what grade to use. Don't experiment with cheap oils; don't mix brands; and don't expect any lubricating oil, even Polarine, to last more than five or six hundred miles.

The best way to insure complete motor satisfaction is to put nothing in your crank case but Polarine, and nothing in your fuel tank but

DODGE BROTHERS BUSINESS SEDAN

Dodge Brothers, with equal aptness, could have named it the Family Sedan

In the first place, it is big and roomy—a five-passenger car that will really seat five adults in comfort. There is no space wasted on superfluous adornments. Every inch of body and chassis is put to actual use.

There are no delicate cloth furnishings to be soiled by the children. The seats are upholstered in durable and attractive blue Spanish leather.

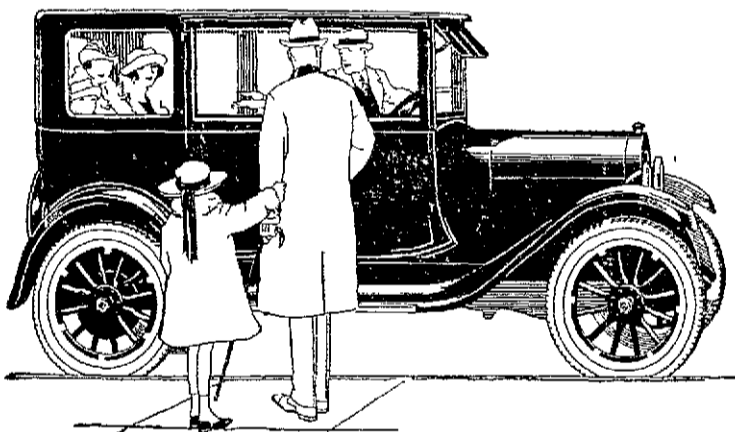

There is no sensitive varnish to be easily scratched or finger-spotted. The body is steel-built—a new principle in Sedan design—making it possible to finish the exterior in Dodge Brothers oven-baked enamel, the most durable finish known.

The rear seat furnishings come out—instantly converting the rear section into a spacious carrying compartment—handy for carrying trunks, boxes and household luggage of all sorts.

Children can romp and play to their hearts' content in this car, and when cleaning time comes, you can turn the hose on it—inside and out.

PINEVILLE ALMOST BASKETBALL VICTOR

Rose Hill Scores Just As Whistle Blows—Makes Game 14 to 13

PINEVILLE, Feb. 21.—Day by day the P. H. S. basketball team is getting better and Friday night it almost won a game. Rose Hill saved themselves from defeat by making a basket just as the final whistle blew and thereby taking the long-end of a 14-13 score. The game was very rough and the close score as the only thing that made it interesting. Capt. Cumes and Weller were unable to play on account of sickness. The close shooting of J. Carnes and Hoskins was the redeeming feature of the P. H. S. team. The lineup:

Pineville: Gibson (F), Asher (F), Rollins (C), Hoskins (G), J. Carnes (G), and VanBever subs. Rose Hill: Marchum, Carter, Goebel, Goebel, Goebel.

For More Equipment and Better Service

The railroads of America have contracted to spend the enormous sum of nearly one billion dollars for the improvement of their service, by the addition of equipment and the betterment of road conditions, during the year of 1923. This huge investment is being made in order that the business of the nation may prosper and develop, and represents careful study on the part of railroad executives who are entrusted with the investment of more funds than any other single business institution in all America.

New cars (both freight and passenger), new motive power (new and heavier types of engines), and improved track conditions will make for better service by all the railroads.

The L. & N. Railroad Has Lately Authorized or Expended Nearly $30,000,000 for such work,—which figures represent an appropriation of $5,952.00 per mile; whereas, the average investment, per mile, of all American railroads is but $2,729.00.

Furthermore, the L. & N. is also contemplating the inauguration of additional work involving many more millions of dollars which will be authorized and consummated as the year 1923 progresses.

Although there is "water-water everywhere", the railroads in the United States spend per year more than $23,000,000 for the purpose of providing a satisfactory water supply for efficient operation of locomotives.

FELT TIRED, SO TIRED

Indiana Lady Says She Was Run-Down, Suffered With Her Back, Took Cardui, and Got Well.

Richmond, Ind.—"I thought I would write a line or so, to say that I owe my good health and strength to Cardui," says a letter from Mrs. Cora Courtney, 31 Railroad Street, this city.

"I was all run-down until my family thought they would lose me," writes Mrs. Courtney. "My husband coaxed me to take Cardui, so, to please him, I did, and will say I do not regret it, for I am able to do all my work and do my shopping."

"I have five children, four in school, my husband and a boarder to do for, and I do all my own work for all of us, and find time to play. We all praise Cardui. Every sick and run-down woman should take this wonderful medicine."

"I suffered with my back; a very weak feeling in my limbs."

"I felt hardly able to drag; just tired—so tired all the time."

"It was an effort for me to do anything, but Cardui helped me so I felt like a different woman."

If you are in a run-down physical condition, suffering as this Indiana lady says she did, give Cardui a fair trial. It should help you.

Take Cardui.

All You Need to Do to Gain Financial Independence Is An INTERNATIONAL TRUCK

Tomorrow we will pay tribute to that great American, George Washington, the first president of the United States. While we commemorate the birth of that truthful man, let us not forget the difficulties of his day, when the people had not the use of steam, electricity, airplanes, Atlantic cable, submarine, and the carrying of human intelligence on the very ether. There were no automobiles to carry his majesty from his beautiful palace that overshadowed the Potomac to his presidential duties at the Capitol then located at Philadelphia.

Think, if you please, if Washington had had the service of the International Motor bus from Mount Vernon to Philadelphia, or the use of a motor truck on his Virginia plantation, what this would have meant to him in time saved and wealth made.

Our ancestors had to fight for Independence. As a result a new nation conceived of liberty was born. Today it is the greatest nation. It's wealth, its progress and its power are due to the genius and thrift of its people.

Today you can gain personal independence without fighting for it, if you will make a decision and carry it out with the spirit of the men of '76, a decision to purchase an International Motor Truck. It is seldom that a fortune will grow like a grain of wheat without cultivation, and for that reason you should cultivate your business by equipping yourself with a motor truck which will provide you with dependable, low hauling cost day after day, no matter what the weather of traffic conditions may be.

The International Harvester Co. owns every piece of their truck in its raw state, timber land in Arkansas, coal mines in Kentucky, iron ore in Pennsylvania, steel mills in Wisconsin, and for this reason, can sell you as good a truck as can be made at forty per cent saving, as compared with other high priced trucks.
